

What if your home office outgrows its allotted space? Try breaking it up.

The library on the facing page spreads around a remodeled landing leading from downstairs to the master bedroom. The bend in the landing forms an intimate book nook where one can study, browse, or simply gaze out through the peaked window wall to greenery beyond.

